NUMBER 286

It has been decided to hold the next State fair at Fond du Lac. Fond du Lac wants it and it is a good place to hold it.

On Monday, the 27th instant, the Garfield memorial services will take place in Congress, the meeting to be in the hall of the House of Representatives.

When the bill to abolish the whipping post came up in the Virginia Senate on Wednesday, only two Democrats voted for the abolition of the whipping post, is a sort of a Democratic institution.

Gaitheau has purchased a new suit of clothes with the money obtained from autographs. This is all right. It will save the government the expense of buying a suit when he is buried.

A bill was introduced in the Assembly to-day authorizing the removal of the capital to Milwaukee and to change the present capital into an institution for the insane. That building would just suit Dr. Kempster for a residence.

Assemblyman Parry, of Columbia county, has introduced a bill providing that any teacher after twenty-one years of successful work under either a first, second-class county or limited certificate, may be awarded a life certificate by the State Superintendent, if the applicant is of good moral character.

When the capital punishment bill was under discussion in the State Senate, it was very plainly to be seen that there was a stranger sentiment in favor of the restoration of hanging than there was two years ago. In the Senate there were 23 in favor of the bill and only eight against it. It is said that the bill may possibly fail in the Assembly, as the sentiment there—contrary to the general rule—is more conservative than in the Senate.

Mrs. R. B. Hayes has been honored more than any other lady who ever presided at the White House. The painting of her, presented to the President of the United States by the temperance ladies and to occupy a conspicuous place in the Executive Mansion, has been returned from Paris, where it was sent to be engraved. An elegant oak frame elaborately carved in emblematic designs by the Cincinnati School of Design, has also arrived at the White House. The oil portrait will be hung in the green parlor.

A dispatch from Washington says there is considerable comment there over the showing of the census of Utah, which divides the population of the Territory into 71,500 males, and only 69,454 females. "The question is, if polygamy exists in Utah to the extent that has been alleged—the Mormon men having from three to a dozen and twenty wives apiece—how comes it that nevertheless the number of males is considerably larger than the number of females. The explanation is that in the numerously populated mining districts of Utah there are scarcely any women and no Mormonism. The census of Salt Lake City and vicinity, where the Mormons are in force, it is alleged, gives a different showing as regards the comparative male and female population. It is also stated by the opponents of polygamy that only a portion of the Mormon men have a plurality of wives—only those who can afford the expensive luxury—and that no matter how large the proportion of males is over the females, the fact nevertheless exists that polygamy is extensively practiced in Salt Lake City and in various other parts of that and adjacent Territories, and as the men become wealthy, so that they can afford more than one wife, the infamous plurality system increases."

There is a fair prospect that the postal savings bank bill will become a law. The Southern members of Congress want it and the Western members are in favor of it. There will be some opposition to it from the Eastern members but the opposition does not seem formidable enough to defeat the measure. The argument used by the Eastern members is that savings banks already exist where there is a demand for them, and that the managers of those banks can invest the savings of the poor to better advantage than that class can do itself; that building and loan associations take the place of savings-banks in Philadelphia and many central cities, and that in the South there is very little money to be placed in savings-banks. Another argument that is being used is that the Post-Office Department has already all the business it can do. The fact that there have been gigantic stealings in the star-route service is referred to as a reason why larger trusts should not be imposed upon that service, which is already overburdened, and so subject to temptations. The bill, it is claimed, too, would require an army of officials. The State-rights argument is also brought forward—that it is not within the function of the Government to go into savings-bank business. Of course all the argument can and will be answered by the friends of the bill. The Gazette is in hopes that the bill will pass, that this system of savings for the people may be thoroughly tried.

Eugene Cross, Swan Street, Buffalo, writes: "I have used SPINNEY'S BLOSSOM for dyspepsia and indigestion, and have found it to act admirably as a gentle aperient and blood purifier. I consider it unequalled; 'you are at liberty to use my name as a reference.' Price 50 cents, a trial bottle 10 cents. Sold by A. J. Roberts and Sherer & Co.

LEGISLATURE.

Special to the Gazette.

MADISON, Feb. 10.—To-day being the last day for the introduction of new business, a perfect avalanche of bills were presented, 51 in the Senate and over 300 in the Assembly, a large proportion of which were dead heads, and the balance of minor importance.

Each house will hold session this evening, for the introduction of bills and then adjourn till Monday evening.

ASSEMBLY.

One bill introduced in the Assembly was to remove the Capital to Milwaukee and change the present capital building into an institution, for the care of the chronic insane, and compelling the Bell Telephone Co. to put telephones in the offices of the Mutual Union Telegraph company.

Making seduction of girls under 16 years of age a felony punishable by from two to ten years in the penitentiary.

SENATE.

In the Senate the capital punishment bill was made a special order for Tuesday next.

CADET WHITTAKER.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—The celebrated Whittaker case is still in the hands of the secretary of war. The voluminous record of the court-martial is boxed up in his office, where it has been since the judge advocate general made his decision that the court-martial which tried the case was illegally constituted. The case will eventually go to the President, and be referred to the attorney general for an opinion on this question. It is generally believed that Whittaker will die before the case is settled.

TWO ORGANS.

Regulate first the stomach, second the liver; especially the first, so as to perform their functions perfectly, and you will remove at least nineteen-twentieths of all the ills that mankind is heir to, in this or any other climate. Hop Bitters is the only thing that will give perfectly healthy, natural action to these two organs.

WISCONSIN FARMERS.

MADISON, February 9.—The farmers convention is still in session here. The matters brought before the meeting to-day were as follows:

Address on the present and future of horticulture in Wisconsin, by J. C. Plumb, of Milton.

Address by Hiram Smith on the needless losses of dairy farming. Several other addresses were made and papers read and discussed. William Saunders, Superintendent of the Botanic and Horticultural Gardens, Washington, was announced to be present, but a dispatch was received from him, stating that owing to a snow blockade in the vicinity of Washington, he would be unable to be present. This evening several addresses were made and discussed. The session concludes to-morrow.

MADISON, Feb. 9.—The Conference of Charities met again this morning, and discussed jail management; labor for prisoners in jail; indeterminate sentences and vagrancy. Similar subjects were discussed this afternoon, and the conference adjourned.

Physicians prescribe GOLDEN'S LIVER'S LIGHTS BEER and Tonic EXTRACTOR for the weak, worn, and dyspeptic. Take no other.

A SHOOTING AFFAIR.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 9.—A shooting affair occurred at about 9:30 o'clock this evening in the editorial rooms of the National Republican. No one saw the actual occurrence except the parties interested, although Frank B. Conger, a son of the Michigan Senator, who is treasurer of the Republican company was in the immediate vicinity at the time. The true story of the case is, therefore, difficult to arrive at. The result is that A. M. Soteldo, a well-known but not very reputable journalist, is probably fatally shot, and Clarence Barton, news editor of the Republican, is wounded by two bullets, but it is believed not dangerously. There has been bad blood existing between Soteldo and Barton for some time, owing to the publication of an account of a disgraceful brawl in a house of ill-fame about two months ago between Soteldo and a police officer.

FAILURE.

New York, Feb. 6.—There was considerable excitement occasioned on the Produce and Cotton Exchanges this afternoon by the announcement of the failure of William R. Preston & Co., general commission merchants at 66 Pearl street. A letter from the firm addressed to Superintendent Powers, of the Cotton Exchange, was received and posted on the bulletin in the Exchange room at 2:30 o'clock, in which Preston & Co., said: "Will you please announce to members of the Exchange that we are unable to meet our engagements?" At the Produce Exchange there was no official announcement made before 3 o'clock, but the fact of the suspension became known. The firm consists of Mr. Preston and Janvier DeLuc, and it has been known for some time past that they have been heavy speculators in cotton, wheat, and land. From merchants who have had business transactions with the embarrassed firm, and who claim to know something of the difficulties which have beset them, it was learned that Preston & Co. were up to this morning "long" about 95,000 bales of cotton, of which 85,000 bales were in the American market, and 10,000 in Liverpool. On Wednesday the cotton market declined about fifteen points, and yesterday there was a further decline of twenty-five points. The shrinkage in cotton is over half a cent per pound since last Saturday night, and more than one cent since Jan. 1. It is estimated, therefore, that on the 95,000 bales, if the firm was actually long of that amount, they sustained a loss of nearly $200,000. Besides this, they have been speculating in wheat and land at the produce exchange, and it is said that within a week they were long of 200,000 bushels of wheat, a large part of which was in Chicago. This, however, it is asserted, was sold since that time and prior to the announcement of this suspension. They are also reported to have been both "long" and "short" of land, with a balance between the two accounts of about 6,000 acres, which they still hold. On these wheat and land speculations their losses are estimated to be from $150,000 to $200,000, making a total of $350,000 to $400,000.

DESERVING ARTICLES ARE ALWAYS APPRECIATED. The exceptional cleanliness of Parker's Hair Balm makes it popular. Gray hairs are impossible with its occasional use.

OBITUARY.

RACINE, Wis., Feb. 9.—William K. May, one of the early settlers of Racine, died very suddenly at his residence about 11 o'clock last night. Mr. May has for more than forty years been a most honored citizen, occupying many important positions of honor and trust. He had been about his business as usual during the day, and was apparently as well as usual when he retired about 10 o'clock.

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 9.—Henry Gerbert an inmate of the National Home, was killed by a freight-train on the Soldier's farm last night at about 11:30 o'clock. The Coroner has been notified to attend and investigate all the circumstances connected with the accident.

IT IS THE HEIGHT OF FOOLY to wait until you are in bed with disease you may not get over for months, when you can be cured during the early stage by Parker's Ginger Tonic. We have known the sickest families made the healthiest by a timely use of this pure medicine.—Obituary.

A DISSECTED CORPSE.

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 9.—Police officers searched the house of Mr. Herron, a prominent citizen of Madison, with whom several State University students board, and found a partially dissected corpse. The students claim to have got the body from the poorhouse, but considerable excitement is occasioned in Madison on the theory that the body is not that of a pauper, and never was buried.

AN EDITOR VINDICATED.

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 9.—The suit against Editor A. E. Vanderpool, of Bay View, by A. Baldes, was dismissed yesterday by Justice Patterson for want of prosecution and loss of jurisdiction. Mr. Baldes charged Vanderpool with stealing coal. Defendant claimed he had permission from Mr. Baldes' servant to borrow a little coal.

Bread, after all, is the cheapest diet one can live on, and also the best. A story is told that shows just how cheap a man can live when he gets "down to mush," figuratively and literally speaking. Col. Fitzgibbon was many years ago, colonial agent at London for the Canadian Government, and was wholly dependent upon remittance from Canada for his support. On one occasion these remittances failed to arrive, and as there was no cable in those days, he was compelled to write his Canadian friends to know the reason of the delay. Meanwhile he had just one sovereign to live upon. He found that he could live upon sixpence per day, or about twelve and a half cents of our money—fourpennorths of bread, one pennorth of milk, and one pennorth of sugar. He made pudding of some of the bread and sugar, which served for breakfast, dinner, and supper, the milk being reserved for the last meal. When his remittance arrived, about a month afterwards, he had five shillings remaining of his sovereign, and he liked his frugal diet so well that he kept it up for two years, possibly longer. Twelve cents a day is certainly a small amount to expend for food; but a man in Minnesota about three years ago, worried through a wretched year or so, lived on "Johnnycake." We know of a theological student in an Ohio college who, sustained by grace, rice, and corn bread, lived thirteen weeks on $7; but there were several good apple orchards near the college and the farmers had no dog. It is not the necessities of life that cost much, but the luxuries, and it is with the major part of mankind as it was with the Frenchman who said that if he had the luxuries of life he could dispense with necessities. Mere living is cheap, but as the hygienists say, "it is not all of life to live."

A Marvelous Cure.

For all bodily ailments, arising from impurity of blood, a torpid liver, irregularity of the bowels, indigestion, constipation, or disorderly kidneys, is warranted in a free use of BRONN'S BLOOD PURIFIER. Price $1.00, trial size 10 cents, sold by A. J. Roberts, and Sherer & Co.

ANTI-POLYGAMY.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—The Judiciary Committee will act favorably to-morrow it is believed, on Shellabarger's bill, which will be reported to the full committee by Mr. Willis. The bill prohibits the holding of any office of profit or trust by a polygamist. It has been amended to allow proceedings by quo warranto during court, and to make the wives of polygamist competent witnesses against him.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

Two Years in Oregon—Greek Testament Educational Theories.

TRAVEL. Two Years in Oregon. By Wallis Nash, author of "Oregon, There and Back in 1877." New York: D. Appleton & Co., publishers. 1 vol., price, cloth, $1.50.

In the year 1877, the author of this volume visited Oregon, traveled through its length and breadth, and on returning to his home in England, published a book giving a short account of his journey, and recommending the country as a desirable one in which to settle. A few months afterwards he left England at the head of a party of twenty-six persons, and, upon arriving in Oregon, settled at Corvallis, a pleasant little village on the banks of the Willamette river. After a continuous residence of two years in that far-western State Mr. Nash again gives the result of his experience, as a guide to the emigrant who may intend to make Oregon his future home. He presents in a favorable view the agricultural and business prospects of the country; the social and political life of the people; and while he does not claim that a competence can be secured without persevering industry, he maintains that the inducements offered to the enterprising and energetic are such that in a few years the emigrant of moderate means and some experience will be able to acquire a home and pecuniary independence. The book contains a vast amount of information useful to the emigrant, and it is written in a pleasant, chatty style. The descriptions of the varied scenery, the character sketches of the settlers, and the laughable incidents recounted, give an additional pleasure to the volume, which is enriched by several illustrations of Oregon scenery. For sale by Jansen, McClurg & Co., Chicago, and by the local trade.

GREEK TESTAMENT.

THE NEW TESTAMENT IN THE ORIGINAL GREEK. The text revised by Brooke Foss Westcott, D. D., Canon of Peterborough and Regius Professor of Divinity, Cambridge, and Fenton John Anthony Hort, D. D., Hulsean Professor of Divinity, Cambridge. Introduction and Appendix by the editors. New York: Harper & Brothers. 4 cloth, two price, $2.

This volume contains the introduction and appendix to a proposed edition of the original words of the New Testament. The introduction is (1) a succinct account of the reason why criticism is still necessary for the text of the New Testament; (2) what the editors hold to be the true grounds and methods of criticism generally; (3) of the leading facts in the documentary history of the New Testament; and (4) of the manner in which the editors have endeavored to embody the results of criticism in the present text. The appendix contains notes on select readings; notes on orthography, with orthographical alternative readings; and quotations from the Old Testament. The volume gives evidence of very careful and exhaustive labor and professional students of the Bible will find it embodying the results of the very latest researches on the subject.

For sale by Jansen, McClurg & Co., Chicago, and by the local trade in Jan'sville.

EDUCATIONAL THEORIES.

AN INTRODUCTION TO THE HISTORY OF EDUCATIONAL THEORIES. By Oscar Browning, M. A., Lecturer of King's College, Cambridge. New York: Harper & Brothers. Cloth, 12 mo., pp. 199, price 75 cents.

This little book on educational matters is a history of theories of the art: showing what is the historical ground for retaining existing practices in education, or for substituting others; and telling what great thinkers have conceived as possible in this department. All this may strive to stimulate teachers of this time in their work, or enable them to carry out their principles under easier conditions. The writer gives a popular, but we think accurate account of the main lines of thought which have been followed upon educational subjects, in ages past, so far as they are important at the present day. It is an excellent little work, both for teachers and the philosophically-inclined general reader.

For sale by Jansen, McClurg & Co., and by the local trade of Janesville.

A Cough, Cold, or Sore Throat should be stopped. Neglect frequently results in an incurable Lung Disease or Consumption. BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES do not disorder the stomach like cough syrups and balsams, but act directly on the inflamed parts, slaying irritation, give relief in Asthma, Bronchitis, Coughs, Croup, and the Throat troubles which Malignant and Public Speakers are subject to. For thirty years Brown's Bronchial Troches have been recommended by physicians, and all tests give perfect satisfaction. Having been tested by wide and constant use for nearly an entire generation, they have attained well-merited rank among the few simple remedies of the age. Sold at 25¢ a box everywhere.

A POPULAR TONIC.

No preparation ever introduced to the American public for the relief and cure of Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Debilitated Constitutions, Weakness of the Lungs, or Consumption in the incipient or advanced stages of the disease, has ever met with the indorsement of physicians or patients as the celebrated "Tola, Rock and Rye." The repeated and continued sales of this medicine everywhere are the best evidence of its real merits. Letters and testimonials from every quarter of the country attest to its intrinsic value. Tonic and healing effects, are in possession of the proprietors, and can be added to the most skeptical reader of its intrinsic value. Further commendation is unnecessary and superfluous, as a trial of this article, having a pleasant taste and agreeable flavor, will satisfy all those who are afflicted with anything, having pulmonary weakness of the relief to be secured by the use of Tola, Rock and Rye. The annual statement of the Mutual Life Insurance Co., of New York appears in our column to-day. It is of interest to the general reader as well as to the army of policy holders of this great corporation and shows how well a trust can be managed and the confidence of the public not only obtained but increased from year to year. This company now has $4,702,957.92 assets; a surplus of over $12,000,000 and has paid to policyholders during the past year $315,930,137. The business of the Mutual Life constantly increases in magnitude and the result is doubtless in a large measure due to the fact of its reduction in premium rates.

PETROLEUM AND DEATH.

Mrs. E. W. Hilt Burned to Death Last Night. The Particulars of the Terrible Accident.

One of the saddest accidents that has occurred in Janesville for a long time, was that of last evening in the First ward, which resulted in the death of Mrs. Hilt, wife of Mr. E. W. Hilt, one of the proprietors of the morocco factory. The particulars of the accident which led to her tragic death, are given by the daughter. Mrs. Hilt began to fill a fluid lamp about eight o'clock, pouring the fluid from a jug into the lamp. There was a defect, or broken place, in the neck of the jug which Mrs. Hilt could not see, the room being dark, and when she began to pour the fluid into the lamp, a large quantity of it ran through the broken place into her dress. When she had filled the lamp, and was unconscious of the danger before her, she struck a match to light the lamp, and no sooner had this been done than her dress caught fire, and almost instantly the flames covered her entire person. Appalled by the frightfulness of her situation, and altogether losing her presence of mind, she ran frantically out of doors which only added fuel to the flames. She reached the street a human torch, screaming for help, when Mr. Burt Putnam ran to her and throwing an overcoat about her burning form, extinguished the flames. But the fire had already done its worst. When she was taken home and Dr. St. John called, it was found that she was burned nearly to a crisp. Drs. Whiting, Clifton, and Sutherland, were also called for consultation, but soon after arriving the unfortunate woman went into a chill, then into a state of unconsciousness, and at one o'clock fell asleep in death. During two or three hours immediately preceding death, she had no sense of suffering. The terrible loss of such a fate can not but create the deepest sympathy for the afflicted family, and they certainly have it, not only from those merely who were the intimate friends of the deceased, but from a wide circle whose feelings are saddened by the visitation of such a calamity and the coming of such a death. Here is another powerful sermon against the handling of petroleum in the dark or keeping it in anything but thoroughly tight cans. It is treacherous stuff; and unless the greatest precautions are taken, it will, now and then, do its fatal work, and when it is least suspected. Accident after accident occurs, and death follows death in quick succession through lack of caution in handling petroleum fluid. It is time the people appreciated the gravity and importance of this matter, and if they did, and heeded the dictates of common reason, there would be a vast falling off in the number of fatal accidents resulting from the careless use of this fluid.

In Good Spirits.

The New Charter.

District Attorney Hyzer has received a few printed copies of the new city charter, and those who want to examine it can do so at his office. It does not differ materially from the charter which failed to become a law last winter, but some changes have been made which will certainly remove any executive opposition. The clause in the old charter requiring a residence of twenty days in a ward in order to entitle one to vote, has been omitted in the new charter, and all that is required to entitle one to vote is an actual resident in the ward, without any time being specified.

The gas fund of the city has been raised from $2,500 to $3,500; and the fire department fund from $5,000 to $7,000.

As to the liability of the city in case of accidents resulting from defective sidewalks, it exempts it, and makes the property holder, on whose lot the accident occurred, primarily liable, and only when all legal remedy is exhausted against him, can the person injured proceed against the city.

Mr. Hyzer prepared a code in relation to animals running at large on the streets contrary to the ordinance. Persons finding animals running at large will make complaint to a magistrate, and in case of sale, the animal will be sold on execution the same as other property, instead of being sold by the pound master.

These are the principal changes. There has been a great deal of time, patience, and care bestowed upon the revision which Mr. Winans has introduced in the Assembly, and it is believed it will be found to meet the wants of the people. Those who desire to examine the charter will be welcomed at the office of Doe & Hyzer.

Coroner's Jury.

A coroner's jury, summoned before Justice Prichard, this afternoon, composed of W. S. Bennett, B. M. Bucklin, A. K. Cutts, J. H. Taylor, H. B. Walker, and E. C. Notblom, to enquire into the death of Mrs. E. W. Hilt, Oil Inspector Putnam testified, that from an inspection of a small quantity of the petroleum fluid left in the jug, that it would ignite at 60 degrees, whereas the test required by law is 120 degrees, showing that it was an exceedingly dangerous and a very poor quality of fluid.

As we go to press, testimony is still being taken, and the manner of the death of the unfortunate woman, as related by the witness, does not differ materially from that given elsewhere in the Gazette.

A Successful Play-Write.

Eliot Barnes, the author of "Only a Farmer's daughter," is one of the luckiest men in the profession. He has never had a play, during his experience of sixteen years upon the dramatic stage, that has not achieved success, and is at present one of the wealthiest of our American authors. His "Farmer's Daughter" alone has added to his bank account so far, over twenty thousand dollars, with a good prospect of running up to fifty thousand before it has to be shelved. Barnes will never under any circumstances sell a play. A. M. Palmer, of the Union Square theater, when negotiating for Barnes' "Blue and Gray," was very anxious to buy it outright, but Barnes remained firm, and consequently the "Blue and Gray" will be produced at the Union Square theaters upon a fixed royalty.

Mr. Barnes will play here this evening in his own play.

His Partinging Says.

Don't take any of the quack nostrums, as they are regimental to the human system; but put your trust in Hop Bitters, which will cure general dilapidation, costive habits and all comic diseases. They saved Isaac from a severe extract of tripod fever. They are the non plus unum of medicines.

The One Hundred Wives.

It is the aim and scope of the play of "One Hundred Wives" to arouse American indignation and excite the power of the nation to wipe out this plague-spot upon American civilization. The authors, Col. G. A. Pierce and Mr. James B. Rummon, made a thorough study of Mormon history and a sweeping search of Mormon literature before writing their play, and it may be confidently asserted that the terrors and infamies of Mormon life have been in no wise exaggerated. It challenges admiration and draws large audiences. It is a play of the time, powerful in its plot and excellent in its results. Go and hear the most popular and worthy play now on the American stage.

The Brooklyn Bridge and Its Builder.

Roebling was the greatest bridge builder in the world. He started the making of wire cordage in America and built suspension bridges to carry the aqueducts of canals across rivers, and engineered the Pennsylvania railroad across the mountains.

The Brooklyn bridge, between towers, is 1,535 feet long. Behind the towers are 930 feet each side, back to the anchorages. The whole length of the bridge and approaches is 6,000 feet. It is one of the widest bridges in the world, eighty-five feet, with a promenade thirteen feet wide, two railroad tracks and four carriage and horse-car tracks. It is 135 feet in the center above the water. The rock on which the towers rest is about ninety feet below the surface of the water on the New York side and half that depth on the Brooklyn side, the most stupendous thing about the structure. Each tower is 134 feet long by fifty-six wide, and at the top these dimensions are reduced to 120 feet by forty, or the size of a very large house. Each tower is 268 feet above high water. It is 1,335 feet from the beginning of the carriage way on Chatham street to the anchorage on the New York shore. The architect of the bridge received his death wound almost at its inception, standing on the upper framework of Fulton ferry slip as a boat came in and threw its weight against the piles, which yielded and crushed his foot. As if the spirit of the old ferry, about to be supplanted, had revenged itself on the innovator! They buried Roebling in that summer of 1863 at Trenton, N. J., near the spot where poor John Fitch, the watchmaker, eighty-two years before, had started the steamboat. But Roebling's true monument is the Brooklyn bridge towers, and between them in the nerves and tendons, trembling like a weaver's web, lies the shuttle of his soul. You can hear his own words, if you are reverent, calling to the ships and steamers beneath: "It will be the greatest engineering work of the continent, and the greatest bridge in existence. Its towers will be national monuments! It will forever testify to the energy, enterprise and wealth of the great communities it overhangs." Upon the portal of the bridge they might also inscribe his motto: "I have no fear of the difference of opinion; it is only evilities that I dread,"—New York Tribune.

Some Men's Luck.

Gen. Gordon was severely wounded four times in one battle and within an hour, and lived to fight again; and this is only a specimen of the singular good luck that attended some men. In 1864 a Michigan cavalryman named Drake was out foraging in the Shanandoah valley in company with a comrade named Cooper. Cooper was in a smoke-house after meat and Drake was on guard at the door when thirteen Confederates suddenly appeared. They were mounted, and advanced at a gallop, part of them firing as they rode up. One bullet found a suitable opening in the stone wall of the smoke-house, and flew in and killed Cooper dead in his tracks. Drake was standing beside his horse, and his saddle was hit by three bullets, one of which glanced through his hat. As soon as the trooper could realize what had happened he swung himself into saddle and dashed at the circle around him. This moment he happened in view, he was a target for carbine and pistol. His horse made a rush at the line, but was driven back. Followed by Cooper's horse he galloped around and across a circle not over 100 feet across, all the time under a steady fire by the Confederates. This fire was soon returned by Drake, who fired away seven cartridges and then drew his saber. His seven bullets, as afterward vouched for, killed two men, wounded two more, and killed one horse. His fire broke the circle, and he got out of it, but for thirty rods, as he made off, he was exposed to the fire of nine or ten men. Cooper's horse was killed in the circle, while Drake's was hit no less than nine times and yet not disabled. As for the rider, his comrades, on his return to camp, counted up a record of a truly-miraculous escape. Three bullets struck his scabbard, two his hat, four went through his clothing, one burned his cheek, one raked his knee, and two hit his left boot. While one single bullet killed the one trooper, the other had sixteen fired point blank at him and yet did not lose a drop of blood. Cooper's horse was killed by one bullet, while nine failed to disable the larger and more-exposed animal.—Detroit Free Press.
